Color Nurtures & Supports Your Home and Garden

Did you know that the colors in your home, office, and garden are speaking to you all the time and influencing you in profound ways. Use ColorAlchemy to transform your life with the endless supply of color.

ColorAlchemy teaches you how some colors in an environment may aggravate you or inspire arguments between occupants. Depending on your "color personality," too much blue, for example, could leave you feeling blue and depressed, while green could either support love and compassion or being green with envy.

As far back as Ancient Egypt, color has been used to trigger emotion and feeling. Newtonian science, Quantum Physics and physiological studies explain why these emotions and feelings create reaction. Reactions, of course, can either be positive or negative based upon your ColorAlchemy and the colors of your space.

Color holds profound power because they are unconscious symbols that not only surround us in every moment, they balance human desire. We all want to increase vitality, inspire creativity, strengthen confidence, deepen love, improve focus, expand intuition, and maintain inner peace—ColorAlchemy teaches you how to do just that!
